

Red Dust travels to some of Australia's most remote areas where we work in partnership with communities to achieve something we all take for granted - good health. We urgently need your support to break the cycle of poor health so the generation of Indigenous youth in remote communities have a healthier future. Without your help, there is only a remote chance we can break the cycle.

FUNDRAISE

There are so many ways you can help Red Dust without being a role model or sponsor. Red Dust relies on individuals wishing to see a healthier lifestyle for our Indigenous youth - company morning teas, school BBQ's or sports days are just some of the ways you can help raise the much needed support.
